Highway 90 lighting locations to be selected by state

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
The Bay St. Louis city council approved a small but necessary step in the long anticipated Highway 90 lighting project Tuesday.

The State Highway Department was given power to approve the location of light poles along the thoroughfare. Mayor Edward Favre reported bid openings are advertised for February 16 and a March/April completion date is anticipated.

The Federal Aid Urban System Funds grant, through federal and state highway departments will supply the greater amount of the 75/25 percent split.

Favre stated prior cost-free design work, offered by Coast Electric and Mississippi Power companies, had to be rejected because federal grant conditions require a contract with a licensed practicing engineer.

Engineering fees will be absorbed by the city.

The median strip will hold 87 poles, each with two-250 high pressure sodium lights.

Collision claims life of HMC nurse

Susan B. Hatten, 37, of Picayune, died Thursday night in a two-car crash when she collided with a vehicle traveling in the wrong lane, driven by a state trooper.

Hatten was a nurse at Hancock County Medical Center in Bay St. Louis.

The officer, Trooper First Class Darryl Deschamp of the Gulfport District of the Mississippi Highway Patrol, was leaving the Wal-Mart parking lot traveling east in the westbound lane of four-lane Mississippi Highway 43 inside the Picayune city limits.

Deschamp's 1992 Ford had traveled approximately four-tenths of a mile in the wrong lane of traffic when it collided with Hatten's 1985 GMC Jimmy.

Hatten was turning into the westbound lane of Highway 43 from East Jerusalem Road when the collision occurred.

Deschamp sustained a broken arm and other cuts and bruises, the officer was treated at a local hospital and released.

Hatten was not wearing her safety belt when the crash occurred.

The trooper was not responding to any type of emergency, and preliminary investigation reveals that both vehicles were traveling well below the posted

Waveland approves new city insurance carrier

BY LIZ HAAS

Waveland Aldermen approved the city's health and life insurance plan under a new carrier, Blue Cross, in a Wednesday meeting.

There would have been a 44 percent rate increase for the renewal of the current plan that expires February 1, with Acordia, based upon losses claimed in the year.

Blue Cross health benefits would be comparable to what the City has now, but at a lower cost. Also, the life insurance rates from Blue Cross are five percent lower than Acordia's.

Blue Cross charges $132.98 per employee and $352.28 for the family insurance plan. Acordia charges $160.70 per employee and $414.80 per family plan.

The Blue Cross plan would offer a $500 deductible, with a 50-50 co-insurance rate for anything over the deductible and a stop or out-of-pocket rate of $2,500.

Vivian Holder, Blue Cross representative, said the city would need an 85 percent participation level of eligible employees and a 75 percent contribution level to spread the risk and generate risk dollars.

The board ratified a poll vote taken January 12 and 13 approving John Breadwater's taxi cab rates.

The rates are $1.60 for the first two-sixths of a mile, .20 cents for each additional one-sixth mile up to one mile and $1.20 for each mile thereafter.

Hearing canceled on Diamondhead casino

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Purcell Company Inc. temporarily withdrew a wetlands permit application with the Bureau of Marine Resources (BMR) Friday, citing the need for more data prior to meeting with public comment.

Purcell Co. attorney Carl Joffe reported, "Purcell Co. has decided to withdraw its pending permit in order to obtain more time within which to develop and supply the Bureau of Marine Resources and the public with additional environmental data, and in order to evaluate and respond to public comments received by the Bureau of Marine Resources."

"Purcell remains committed to the proposed project and again seek permit approval once the additional study is complete and the additional data is available."

A public hearing scheduled for Thursday, January 28 is now canceled by order of BMR.

David Ruple, wetlands project manager for BMR, stated, "Purcell has originally applied for the permit in order to construct a marina basin, dockside casino and an access road."

Joffe added the withdrawal has nothing to do with their present relationship with Mississippi Gaming Corp.

Mississippi Gaming Corp. is owned by Europa Cruises Corp. of Pensacola, Fla. and has publicized a notice of intent to apply for a gaming license for the proposed Diamondhead location, south of I-10 and just east of the Harrison County line.

Card of Thanks

An Open Letter To All Donors And Contributors of the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund:

Now that the activities of the Christmas season are over, I would like to take this opportunity to express my heartfelt appreciation to all those who helped make the 1992 Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund the best ever.

As always, the United Way stands at the forefront, followed closely by the Hancock County law enforcement agencies, whose fine efforts raised a lot of funds.

I would also like to thank the officials of Bay St. Louis for their full and unwavering support. Knowing that they fully back the effort helps to make my job easier.

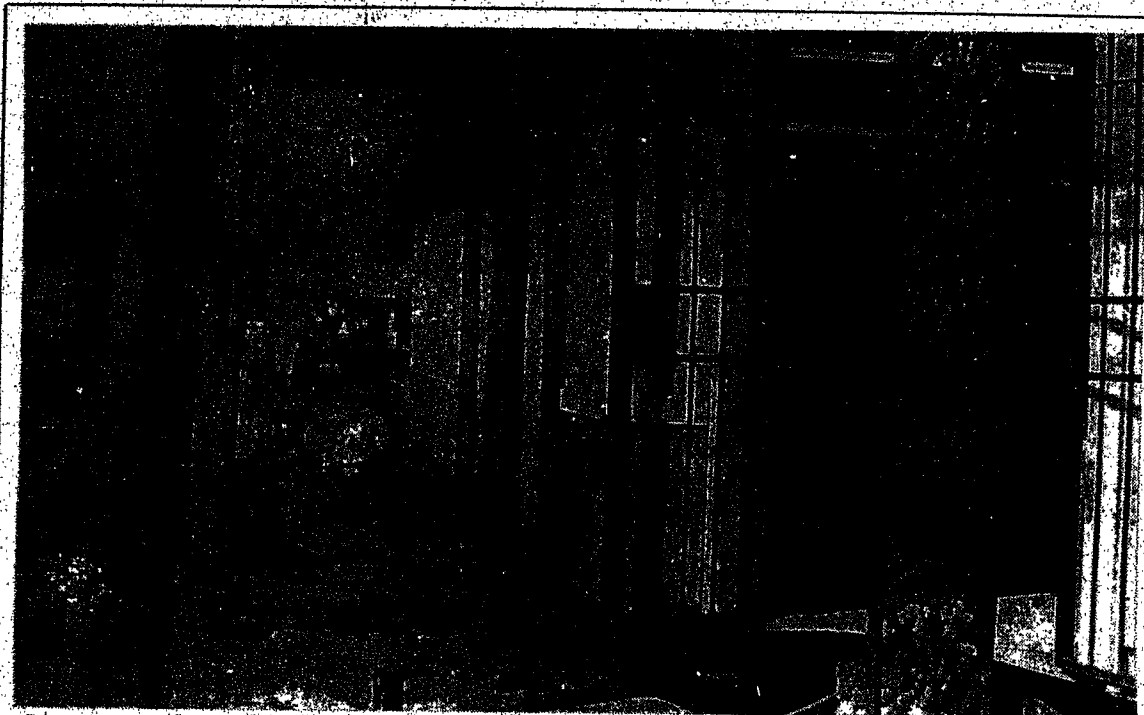

I would like to welcome a new group to the task: Casino Magic. The chili contest was a fun activity and helped earn needed funds. No letter of thanks would be complete without a special thanks to my regular donors, organizations, businesses and individuals who have consistently come forth with donations I know I can depend on each year.

It seems each year I report that the Doll and Toy Fund has gotten bigger and has served more children than ever before. The statement is true again this year. The 1992 effort served 1,148 children, an increase of 3 percent over last year.

I wish that all my workers and contributors could see the relieved faces of the parents and happy expressions of the children as packages are picked up or delivered. Just to observe such a scene makes the whole operation worthwhile.

Again, thank you for your continuing cooperation and thoughtful generous support.

Respectfully,
 Andrew B. Lizana

Gex interjected a bill requesting the state allow Hancock to substitute the February holiday of President's Day for Mardi Gras will be resubmitted this session by Rep. J.P. Compretta.

Board secretary Terry Gerard commented the same request is made each year with no success. "Last year I called Jackson to ask about switching the date and they said, 'Marty who?'"

Scianna seeks re-election to District 1 council seat

Charles C. Scianna, councilman District One, announces that he will be a candidate for re-election in the May 4 Primary Election.

Charles Scianna

He is married to the former Beverly Favre. They have 9 children and 12 grandchildren. He represents Bay St. Louis on the Sand Beach Advisory Committee and Mississippi Gulf Coast Planning and Development Agency.

Scianna hopes to continue the progress made in the present administration in reducing utility rates and improvements to utility services.

Scianna is pleased with a recently adopted curbside recycling program and the city's further efforts to reduce waste going into landfills with the use of chipping equipment to turn leaves and limbs into compost.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I see signs popping up about the area, and some of these are being illegally placed.

I received a telephone call from a City of Bay St. Louis official reporting that they will once again be removing illegal signs about the area.

What appears to be one of the favorite locations for signs is the highway property near the Bay bridge. Bay St. Louis workers will be removing the signs within a few days I am told, so if you have any out there illegally posted, you may want to collect them.

Congratulations are in order for Mrs. Ina LeBlanc Piazza upon receiving the United Way of South Mississippi's Hancock County Mae Beyer/J. Norton Haas Sr. Award.

Mrs. Piazza was honored for her many years of service to the United Way of Hancock County and many of its agencies.

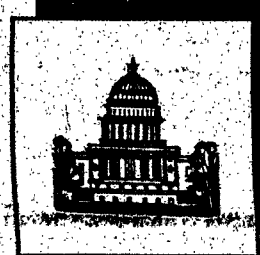

She is active in so many organizations and has been for as long as I can remember.

She has been a family friend since a teenager, as my father worked in her family's store and my mother was a shopper. This was before my parents were married.

The presentation was made Thursday night at the United Way of South Mississippi's annual meeting held at the Diamondhead Country Club.

Among the organizations Mrs. Piazza is and was involved with over the years include, United Way director, VA hospital volunteer, Hancock General/Hancock Medical Center Pink Lady, American Red Cross, Democratic Executive Committee, poll worker, Hancock County Food Pantry, St. Vincent de Paul Society, Welfare Department and Housing boards, Emergency Relief, FEMA board of director, Our Lady of the Gulf Altar Society and other church related functions, and the list goes on and on.

I cannot think of a more deserving Hancock County resident to be so recognized.

REPORT FROM THE SENATE

As the clock struck midnight on Monday, Jan. 18, the Senate met the deadline for introduction of general bills and constitutional amendments. 966 bills and 34 concurrent resolutions are being considered by the Senate committees to determine which will be presented to the full Senate for debate and floor action.

Feb. 2 is the next deadline facing the standing committees. Reports must be made on the bills and amendments that are already in committee.

Those bills that fail to be favorably reported on cannot receive any further consideration during the session. However, any bill of general nature that a senator still wishes to introduce requires a suspension resolution passed by both the Senate and the House with a two-thirds vote.

There are several important issues that have been introduced for consideration by the legislative body. Three bills address the reduction of car tags. At least four bills deal with pay raises for both state employees and educators. Two bills are designed to reduce the size of the Legislature. Since the removal by voters of the state's ban on a lottery, that issue can also be found among the bills.

A need for improving management techniques in state programs and services has made identifying potential candidates for privatization a possible solution to increase efficiency and effectiveness. Environmental bills are targeting how to pay for clean air, protect underground waste supplies, and deal with hazardous waste.

Control of gaming could be removed from the tax commission according to a statute that would make gaming an independent agency. However, there are a few bills that allow gaming to remain under the jurisdiction of the state.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

HHS exemption policy is great disservice to students

Dear Editor:

I am writing in reference to the recent controversy surrounding the student exemption policy in the Hancock County Schools.

I was disappointed in the teachers' response to Mr. Kolodziej's criticism of the policy. I was also somewhat surprised to find that two teachers whom I had formerly admired for their exceptional teaching abilities had signed the response.

The lack of regard for student achievement displayed by this group is shameful, and I fear for the future of education if this is the prevailing attitude among the teachers of today.

I completely agree with Mr. Kolodziej: exempting students from exams for attaining a C average and missing no more than two days of school encourages mediocrity and discourages students from endeavoring for better grades.

Hancock High School principal David Kopf explained in a Sea Coast Echo article dated January 10 that the goal was to get the students to school so that they may be motivated to learn.

I am certain that many teachers will agree that just because a student is present doesn't mean that he or she will be willing to learn. A teacher truly interested in educating students should also encourage them to strive for grades higher than a C.

Teachers should expect to have many different levels of achievement in their classrooms, but it is a great disservice to the students to encourage them all to achieve a merely adequate level of education.

This policy prepares students for neither college nor the work force. There was no exemption policy at Hancock North Central when I was in high school, yet I was still somewhat unprepared for the extensive essay tests I encountered in college.

I have yet to encounter any kind of exam exemption policy at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Students preparing for college should not only be required to take every examination given, but should be better prepared for the kinds of tests given in college. Guiding students through high school and treating them as children does them no favor at all.

As for those students who choose to go straight to work after graduation, they certainly should not be able to expect to be guided through their tasks each day and be rewarded for simply showing up.

In my own idealism, I like to think that teachers choose their profession because they are interested in helping young Americans achieve all that they can and plan a suitable career.

When people choose teaching as their career, they should know how much paperwork and how many hassles that they will have to deal with. With five classes a day with no more than 40 students in each, a teacher should have to keep track of no more than 200 students per year.

While this may seem a formidable number, it should be accepted as a professional challenge. Each piece of work received from each student is not only an indication of what they have learned, but what the teacher has succeeded in teaching.

If teachers would have a bit more personal pride in their career achievements, students would probably have more pride in their own work and try harder.

When students hear teachers complain about the hassles involved in teaching, they get the impression that what they are supposed to be learning is not important.

I have considered teaching as my own career, but I will have to reject this option if I will have to work among those who care so little for student achievement.

Sincerely,
J. Suzanne Crow

Part time Diamondhead resident resents fee increase

Dear Editor,

I feel it is unfair that many part time Diamondhead residents, who sometimes spend as little as two or three weekends there each month, to have to pay increased rates for garbage collection.

A new tax, related to Chapter 493 Laws of 1973 provisions, levies an additional $7.90 per home and $5 per apartment. Water and sewer monthly charges have also increased (May 1990—$14 per mo. 4,000 per gal. minimum; $2 extra per 1,000 gal. to May 1992—$22.50 per mo. 4,000 gal. minimum; $3.25 extra per 1,000 gal.). Instead of the normal business approach to have the stockholders provide funds to improve the system, it is the customer who pays for improvements. Is this fair?

According to economist and Nobel Prize winner Milton Friedman, our country is on a good economic recovery course, but too many over-taxations could produce a relapse. It looks so easy for any government and/or company administration to go on taxing to balance the budget the easy way.

Why not "cut the fat?"

Sincerely,
Capt. John F. Wheelock Sr.

Clinton must show strength against Iraq

Dear Editor:

Like so many millions of people in America and around the world, I have watched the swearing in of America's new president, William Jefferson Clinton.

Whether one voted for him or not, we must all wish him well and give him a chance before we start our "I told you so's."

By this I mean his promises of jobs for everyone, health care for all, and so much more.

It will not be too long before he finds out that being President is a lot different and a million times harder than being governor of Arkansas.

My one wish for him is to be strong and not let Saddam of Iraq pull the wool over his eyes. This is just my opinion, but there will be no peace anywhere until Saddam is removed.

While watching the pictures on TV of our Capitol, White House and the plane taking President Bush to Houston, I thought of a saying I read about in American history when I was in grade school many years ago.

This is it: "Lives there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself has said, this is my own my native land." As always, God bless America.

Respectfully,
Nina S. Garcia

$18 per hour waiting time. The ordinance to allow for taxi cab drivers in the city was adopted from the Bay St. Louis city ordinance.

Alderman Stan Weidman,

District 4, expressed concern that since Bay St. Louis has not adopted rates yet, there could be confusion and a burden for the drivers if Bay St. Louis adopted different rates.

He asked the board to hold off on a decision until Bay St. Louis established their rates, so there would be uniformity.

Mayor Stella Frilot said she was certain that Bay St. Louis would want to be uniform and go along with the City of Waveland.

The board aired complaints about excessive parking from three dogs at a house on Sears Avenue.

Board attorney, Lucien Gex, cited the ordinance prohibiting excessive noise from animals after 10 p.m.

The board approved to send a letter to the owners, explaining the complaints and requesting they do something about the noise.

Weidman suggested the city implement some type of log system to insure all calls made on the city's cellular phones are for business purposes.

No action was taken on the matter.

The board received six requests for street lights.

Aldermen discussed putting a moratorium on the city street lights because the lights are costing the city between $10 and $20 a month or $120 to $240 a year for each house, according to Frilot.

There was also discussion for the board to restrict any light replacements to those only where there is a dire need.

The only action taken on the matter was to approve the six requests for street lights.

The board approved: —the minutes; —the docket.

Accidents

Glover stated, about 11:30 a.m. Duncan Loughridge, 15, apparently lost control of the 1991 Dodge he was driving on West Diamondhead Drive, crashing into a tree in the median.

"If ever there was a case of an air bag saving someone's life this is one," the deputy said. "In my opinion, he would have been severely, severely injured or killed without it."

Mobile Medic transported Loughridge to Gulfport Memorial Hospital.

In the other accident, State Highway Trooper David Murtagh reported, a two-car collision on highway 603 resulted in minor injuries.

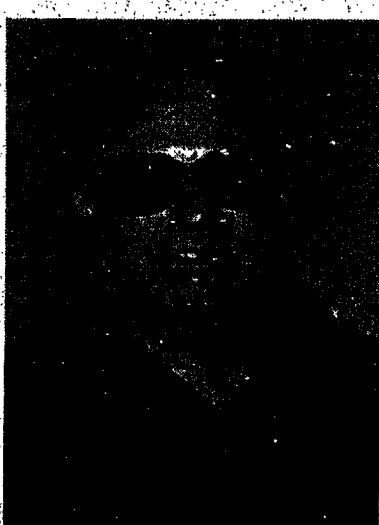

He stated, "At 11:50 a.m., Becky Sloane, 26, of Bay St. Louis was driving a 1992 Ford north on highway 603 about one-half mile from the Kiln-Waveland intersection, when attempting to turn right her vehicle was hit in the rear by 1991 Nissan driven by Harold L. Moore, 50, of Bay St. Louis.

Murtagh said the drivers received only minor injuries; were transported by Mobile Medic to Hancock Medical Center, treated and released.

payment on completion of the comprehensive gaming plan, which was believed to be part of the original contract.

Members of the audience questioned the entirety of services received from Buckhurst, saying a zoning map was also to be included in the cost of the contract.

Council members stated they, too, were uncertain as to the exact content of the contract, assuming certain services were included only to discover later they were not.

Seafide stated the plan was not part of the original contract as believed, and neither was a zoning map.

He said Buckhurst completed the comprehensive plan, but because of confusion over the contract, requested payment on it as additional work. They allowed the city the option to not pay if so decided.

No action was taken by the council.

TRAIN DEPOT

The city council approved payment by CSX of $750 for a contractor to review plans to offer alternatives to reduce the original cost estimate for the replacement building the city is presently negotiating in exchange for the depot property.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business the city council approved:

—the re-chartering of the Boy Scout Police Explorers group for one year;

—to pay $100 for the chief of police's membership in the International Association of Chiefs of Police for one year;

—payment of the city spot gas bill for $1,175 to United Gas Pipeline, delivered for December 92. Councilman Jim Thrifley dissented citing the high cost of the tariff gas.

COOKING UP
A STORMBy Katy McGuire
Caire

"Coq au Vin" translates from the French as "Rooster in Wine" as this dish evolved from the thriftiness of housewives in the French countryside—as a delicious way to cook until succulent and tender that old rooster which had outlived his usefulness in the barnyard!

With tender fryers and stewing hens around in such abundance these days, cooking a Coq Au Vin is a matter of an hour or so, instead of the former slow, all-but-all-day effort necessary in other days. Like most stews, and this is, of course, a stew, this dish is even better reheated the next day. So, it's a good make-ahead dish, whether for a company meal or just to have on hand for that inevitable extra-busy, no-time-to-cook day. Here's:

COQ AU VIN

1 fryer, 2 1/2 to 3 lbs.
12 quite small onions, quartered
1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms, quartered or halved as you like 1 bottle (one fifth) domestic burgundy or other red wine—that's right, a bottle; you may not use all of it.

4 Tbsp. butter mixed with 4 Tbsp. flour and kneaded into small balls

Few slices bacon, diced
Chopped garlic as desired
1 jigger brandy (optional)
Pinch of thyme
1 bay leaf
Pepper, salt as desired

Use small-size white or red onions, as you choose, or add a little chopped garlic—is there such a thing as a "little" garlic? At any rate, fry off the bacon pieces till they turn a bit golden, and remove with a slotted spoon.

Brown the onions and mushrooms, then remove also. Place the chicken, cut up as for frying, in the heavy pot, and when the chicken is slightly brown, take the pot off the fire, and swiftly pour in the brandy (if you're using it) and touch a match to the brandy. When the flames die down, return the bacon pieces and mushrooms to the pot, add a bit of garlic and pour enough of the wine over to cover the ingredients. Season to your taste, not forgetting the bay leaf and thyme.

Cover the pot tightly, and simmer the chicken for 45 minutes or so until fork-tender. Drop in the butter-flour mixture-balls, a little at a time. This is the "Beurre Manie" or "kneaded butter mixture" so much a part of classic French cuisine, just as the "roux" is so much a part of our cuisine.

Stir the pot, and don't panic when those little white flecks come to the surface; they'll disappear as the sauce thickens slightly as it reduces. (You may not need the full amount of butter and flour, as you don't want the sauce too thick. And, on the other hand, you don't want it too thin, so you may want to use all the wine.)

Let it all simmer for another 10 or 15 minutes, then remove the bay leaf, adding wine if necessary. Serve French style with triangles of bread sauteed in butter, or with chunks of hot French bread for mopping up the sauce. Or, serve over rice. (4 to 6 servings)

Tips On Writing
EFFECTIVE Classified Ads

STICK TO THE FACTS

Prospective buyers need to know details, like the condition of the item for sale, the size, brand name, color and any other relevant information that would help them make a decision.

BE HONEST

Aside from being unethical, exaggerating or misinforming potential buyers won't help you make a sale, and may only serve to lose a prospective buyers' trust. Even if they come to look at what you have to sell, they'll be less likely to buy the item or trust you once they see they've been misled.

SPELL IT OUT

Abbreviations are not easily understood by many people and may even confuse a reader. It only takes them a second to pass over an ad because it doesn't seem clear, why let it be yours because you abbreviated a description?

THE BOTTOM LINE

State the price. You'll save yourself the hassle of having to answer calls from prospects who, upon learning the price, are not really interested. Price is the first thing they'll look for when reading your ad, and when prospects know the price, you'll know you have a serious buyer on the line.

BE THERE

List the best hours to call and make sure you're at home. If you don't list a specific time, you could be flooded with calls any time of the day or night. And when you're not at home to take calls, most likely, they won't call back.

ASK US

If you aren't sure how to word your ad or what features to include, why not ask us? Our professionals on staff know how to create an effective ad that sells, they're always willing to help, and there's no charge!
